

NORTH CENTRAL CANADA CENTRE FOR ARTS AND THE ENVIRONMENT: BUILDING KNOWLEDGE COURSE

SEPTEMBER
25-29, 2017
Flin Flon, MB

"The mission to keep the flame of the perennial and essential wisdom of Geometry alight continues ..."
Jon Allen, 2015.

Join us in Flin Flon, MB for this exciting one-week course intended to provide an introduction to the basic principles underpinning holistic approaches to sustainable living, design and community. Instruction will emphasize basics of sacred geometry, drawing and traditional structure building.

As guest instructor, Jon Allen will focus on common connections among cultures and the connection geometry provides between cultures and nature. Other instructors will provide input on local and traditional forms of art as examples of these connections. Guest instructors include: Patricia Glanville - Architect & Designer, Irvin Head, Sculptor, Hilary McDonald, Archaeologist, Margaret Head Stepan, Cree Nation Elder and Pat Bruderer, Birchbark Biting.

Applications are open to a wide range of Canadians including architects, local artists, youth, craftspeople, Elders and residents from the North Central Canada and the Hudson Bay Basin. Applicants must submit a 'statement of interest' of up to 500 words and include educational background and future career goals. Applicants under the age of 18 require parental or the consent of a legal guardian. The course has a fee of $200; please contact the Arts Council for possible bursary information.

Deadline for entries is Friday, September 1, 2017
